iNNTD

because quality care matters

iNNTD is an initiative organized by Nannypalooza.com to promote awareness of the important connection between nanny training and quality of care. On Saturday, April 13th over 1,500 nannies from 35 cities across the country will gather in their local communities at training events designed to meet their unique needs.

Each organizer is planning an event with hot topics, top notch, expert presenters and great networking, all in a fun, relaxed atmosphere.

Most events cost less than $75 for a whole day of training!

Please consider covering the cost of this event for your nanny. It's a small investment with a big payoff. Study after study shows that caregivers who receive ongoing training consistently provide higher quality care and are happier in their jobs.

“What a wonderful gift it was for my employer to pay for my iNNTD event! I got lots of great ideas I can use right away with the kids. Plus I made new friends for outings and found a new museum I can visit with my 8 year old! I felt so supported and appreciated that they invested in my career.” — Charlotte, nanny of 15 years

We paid for our nanny to attend the event as a gesture of appreciation. We honestly thought it was just for her. But she came back to work so excited. She had new ideas and we noticed right away that she was happy and more engaged. That is saying a great deal since she has always been amazing!

At NNTD this past year, we had a workshop on sleep training. When my NF and I were having trouble with sleep, we gave her a call. Now the twins are sleeping much better thanks to the sleep coach I met at NNTD!
